Miss Warm Springs 2016 Keeyana Yellowman

Being Miss Warm Springs was something Keeyana Yellowman had wanted to do for some years. “I’ve always looked up to the former Miss Warm Springs, especially my mom,” Keeyana was saying recently.

Her mom is Merle Kirk, and her dad is Virgil Yellowman. Keeyana is a former Miss Junior Warm Springs, and Little Miss Warm Springs.

The Pageant judges last week at the Agency Longhouse chose her to represent the tribes as Miss Warm Springs 2016.

Keeyana, 18, is a senior at Madras High School. She is a co-founder, and now co-president of the Warm Springs Youth Council, advocating the interests of young people in the community.

The Council’s most recent project was a toy drive that brought in many Christmas presents for local families.

During the Miss Warm Springs Pageant, Keeyana performed a hand drum song that she had written. The song, in the Ichishkeen language, “is about having a good heart while being around our children,” Keeyana says.

“My grandma Mildred Queampts helped me with the translation.”

Jayson Smith/Spilyay

Keeyana demonstrates traditional talent during pageant.

Keeyana is planning to attend the University of Oregon after she graduates from high school. She plans to study linguistics.

Keeyana has been around the Native languages for several years, as her grandmother and other elder relatives are speakers.

Keeyana is the fortieth Miss Warm Springs, carrying on a tradition that began in 1955, when the tribes were celebrating the One-Hundred Year Anniversary of the Treaty of 1855.

After the inaugural year in 1955, the Miss Warm Springs pageant was not held again until 1969. At that time, atwai Dorothy ‘Pebbles’ George was selected as Miss Warm Springs. Since then, the pageant has been held annually with few exceptions.

Suzanne Slockish McConnville was Miss Warm Springs 2015, and presented the title to Keeyana at the December 28 pageant.

Miss Warm Springs serves as a cultural ambassador for the Confederated Tribes, and is a role model for the community. She speaks at public functions in the community, regionally and nationally.

She attends local events like the Lincoln’s Birthday Day and Pi-Ume-Sha powwows, and participates in Museum at Warm Springs functions, other tribal enterprise gatherings, as well as regional and national conferences. Many of the titleholders compete annually in the Miss Indian World pageant.

BIA update on petition to change Constitution

Warm Springs BIA Agency Superintendent John Halliday met with Tribal Council this week, regarding the petition calling for a vote on tribal Constitutional amendments.

Mr. Halliday said he would forward the petition signatures and proposed Constitutional changes to the BIA Regional office on Monday afternoon, Jan. 4.

Regional Director Stan Speaks would then make a decision on the election by January 15. If Mr. Speaks determines the petition is valid, with enough signatures, then the BIA would conduct an election within 90 days from Jan. 15.

The petition calls for a number of changes to the Tribal Constitution. Some of the proposed changes are related, and would be voted on together. Proposed changes that stand alone would be subject to separate ballots, Mr. Halliday said.

The idea, he said, is to avoid a situation where the election results create a contradiction.

The group that circulated the petition last year submitted a total of 1,290 signatures to the BIA. A minimum of about 1,183 signatures is necessary to call for the vote.

Member comments needed on tribal logo

The Confederated Tribes of Warm Spring is in the process of updating the tribal website, currently found at:

www.warmsprings.com

Those working on the project have also talked about the tribal logo, and whether it should be updated or changed.

The current tribal logo is used on a variety of things including the website, letterhead, business cards and printed materials like reports.

In some cases, branches have used the tribal logo on vehicles or signage, and the logo is often included on t-shirts for community events.

Over the years, the logo quality has decreased, and it is not used uniformly throughout the organization.

Through the process of developing the website, the tribal logo files are being updated to address these issues by providing uniform files and electronic templates for letterhead, business cards and PowerPoint presentations, to name a few.

The logo will also be included on the new tribal website. Note that no changes are being proposed to the tribal flag.

In December, Tribal Council reviewed two updated logos. Option

2 (above) reflects modifications to the original logo and a color change.

A third option was presented that included three fisherman along the Columbia River. Tribal Council requested that this logo be changed to reflect one fisherman, which is now reflected in Option 3 (above center).

Tribal Council requested that the change to the tribal logo be taken to the people for feedback. Option 1 (above at right) reflects the original logo.

Tribal members are being asked to review the three logos, and choose the one they like the most. The goal is to receive the feedback by January 24.

Following that date, feedback will be collated and presented to the Tribal Council for a final decision.

To give your feedback online, go to: bit.ly/1PGyTFd

If you need a paper version of this form, or for further inquiries, contact: alert@wstribes.org

The options

To be eligible to participate, you must be 16 or over, a member of the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs, and submit your tribal ID number and voting district. All submissions will be verified.

Only one vote is allowable per tribal member, and can be cast online at the site above, or by paper form. Paper forms are also available at the management office at the tribal administration building. Please submit to the management office by the posted deadline, January 24.

Here are the logo options and descriptions:

Option 1 - The current tribal logo contains three teepees, representing the three tribes of the Confederacy, the Warm Springs, Wasco and Paiutes. Contained in the teepees are blue lines, representing water (or rivers) and circles, representing the sun.

Option 2 - This logo is a modified version of the original logo that includes a new color palette and modifications within the teepee. This logo includes “1855” as a reference to the 1855 Treaty with the Tribes of Middle Oregon which created the Warm Springs Indian Reservation.

Option 3 - This is a newly designed logo of a man fishing along the Columbia River. The logo connects the tribe to the Columbia River and one of our primary means of traditional subsistence, fishing. This logo includes “1855” as a reference to the 1855 Treaty with the Tribes of Middle Oregon which created the Warm Springs Indian Reservation.

Project update

Ventures, Council work on next phase

Tribal Council and Warm Springs Ventures are meeting this week to discuss the next steps in the cannabis production project.

One item on the agenda will be development of regulations that the tribes will implement in the operation of the facility.

This will demonstrate that the tribes will meet or exceed state regulations that apply to non-tribal growing operations, said Don Sampson, Ventures chief executive officer.

State and federal officials “are saying that if we can meet or exceed the state standards, then they are prepared to work with us,” Mr. Sampson said. “We intend to be transparent, and to work closely with the state and Department of Justice.”

Along with a meeting with Tribal Council, Ventures is also planning in January to meet with officials from the Department of Justice.

Petition: election would amend Constitution

The final number of signatures submitted to the BIA Regional Office will likely be somewhat lower than the total number submitted. This is because some of the same signatures appeared more than one time on the petition sheets; some were by non-tribal members, and some were by minors. Some signature names are those of people who were deceased at the time.

Still, there appears to be enough signatures to meet the minimum requirement, Mr. Halliday said.

Some signatures are illegible, but apparently these are valid, as the signature gatherers verified the petition sheets, Mr. Halliday said.

Some on Tribal Council feel the illegible signatures should not be counted, as you cannot prove whether the person is really a tribal member, over 18, etc.

The BIA legal counsel, though, indicates the signature gatherer verification is enough, Halliday said.

Allowing the tribal membership to vote on the question is important, Councilman Kahseuss Jackson said, but the integrity of the process is as important.

The potential of non-tribal member signatures on the petition sheets would be unfortunate, he said, considering the proposal is to change the Tribal Constitution. Councilwoman Evaline Patt expressed a similar feeling.

Councilmen Scott Moses and Carlos Smith said the process needs to go forward, so the membership can have their say.

Proposed changes

This is a summary of proposed changes to the tribal Constitution, as presented on the petition:

Tribal Council would include nine members. Under the existing Tribal Constitution, there are 11 Council members. Three of the 11 positions are those of the Chiefs, who serve for life.

One proposed amendment would make all of the Council positions subject to a term of years, with no lifetime positions.

Under the proposal, the terms would be for three years, with the exception of some initial terms. As summarized:

“The elected members will be numbered 1-9 based on a drawing of numbers 1-9. Numbers 1, 4 and 7 will be in the first election after three years; 2,5 and 8 will be in the second election the following year; 3,6 and 9 will be in the third election the following year. The election process for Council will follow this numbered process annually thereafter.”

So after the initial three-year period, there would be an election of three new Council members each year, under the proposal.

Another proposal: The Council members would be selected in BIA secretarial elections by eligible, entitled voters. This would be another significant change, as current Tribal Council elections are conducted tribally.

Under the existing Tribal Constitution, three Council members are elected from the Simnasho and Agency districts, and two are elected from the Seekseequa District.

Under the proposed amendments, the Council members would be elected by the membership at large, rather than by district.

Also among the proposed Tribal Constitutional amendments:

The Tribal Council members would be compensated as follows: Chairperson $80,000; Vice-Chairperson $70,000; all other members $60,000.

If the election goes forward, then tribal members 18 years and older would need to register to vote with the BIA. The referendum would pass with a majority voting in favor; and seeing at least one-third of the registered voters participate. The petition initiators are Mike Clements, Sal Sahme, Wendell Jim, Grant Clements Sr., and Ruth “Pinky” Beymer.

Project: much to work on

Another early project will be the creation of a tribal cannabis commission to oversee the operation, again similar to the tribal gaming operation. In time, the tribes and the state will finalize a compact, similar to a gaming compact, in regard to the cannabis project.

Another item to be determined is the location of the greenhouse. This would be a facility about 36,000 square feet in size. The industrial park, near the mill, or some other location are all on the table.

Ventures and Council are working with the Branch of Natural Resources, the Land-Use Committee, tribal engineer and others in narrowing down the location options. Funding options for the construction are another item on the agenda during early 2016.

The site will be about five acres in size, at a secure location, and would have access to electricity and water. Any cultural and resource requirements would be addressed immediately, Sampson said.

Another project will be development of the employee training program. Ventures and the tribes will work with partners from Colorado on this project, Sampson said. Eighty-five employees will be working at the facility when in its full operation.

“There is a lot to do, and there are different aspects moving forward at the same time,” Mr. Sampson said.

The Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs is the first tribe to pursue a cannabis project at this level, “and we’re going to do it right. That’s what the U.S. Attorney really liked, the transparency. They know we’re heading in the right direction.”

Sometime in the future, the tribes could also consider the cultivation of hemp, which has no recreational quality, but has great industrial potential.

Celebration of long and storied career

Beth Ann Beamer
Managing Faculty
W.S. OSU Extension

The Warm Springs Oregon State University Extension Unit would like to express our gratitude for the support from the community of Warm Springs as we celebrated the long and storied career of Mrs. Arlene Boileau at the Agency Longhouse in December.

Whether championing the children of the group home, working to establish the Early Childhood Education Center, or commanding the 4-H Culture Camp—as only one who has learned the hard way can—Arlene put the children of this community first. Always.

We would like to give a shout out to the Tribal Utilities Department, who made the facility available to us and responded quickly to calls of distress related to necessary items. Thank you for being so responsive.

A note of gratitude to the Branch of Natural Resources for their generous donation of salmon to “fete” Arlene properly. Over the years, this department has been instrumental in making sure the visions in Arlene’s head for a safe and growth-producing culture camp came to fruition.

We deeply appreciate the contribution made by Warm Springs Power and Water Enterprises to support the dinner. You made it possible to have a lovely, complete meal. Thank you for your generous donation.

Thank you also to Clint Jacks, former Extension Agent in Warm Springs, for celebrating Arlene as only he can. Your presence as well as Naomi’s meant so much to Arlene and her family.

A note of gratitude to all the family and community members who stopped by to celebrate with us. I know many of you have benefited in some way from Arlene’s tireless work on behalf of children and youth. We appreciate your taking the time to honor her.

The cooks and cooks’ helpers, including Jermaine Tuckta, Cena Wolfe and Dana Smith, as well as James Sam and Colleen and Julie Sandoval: Thank you. The food was wonderful.

Inez Queaphama-Gomez: You made Arlene so proud at the State Fair Iron Chef, thank you for helping with her retirement.

Lastly, I want to thank my staff at Extension, especially Rosanna Sanders and Andrea Sapuay, for their tireless effort on Arlene’s behalf. Without you, the event would not have happened.

The community will be pleased to note that while Arlene has retired, she has agreed to continue as an Extension volunteer, and will be starting a 4-H Beginning Sewing Club in February.

Again, we are so grateful.

Winter reading at W.S. Library

The winter holidays are past, and the kids are returning to school. So now there will be time for the grown-ups to get involved in: Reading!

The Warm Springs Library Winter Reading program begins January 11, and runs through March 11.

So clean off your reading glasses and start reading any books from A to Z. After you finish reading a book, then fill out a book review.

The more reviews you submit, the better chance you have of winning a great gift.

All this just for reading and doing something you enjoy and learn from. So read to your hearts content and stay warm and cozy this winter.

Sincerely,
The Warm Springs Library

New Year at Human Resources

The Human Resources Department was on limited hours earlier this week. We were finally able to make the important physical changes we promised, to ensure we provide to all of you optimal customer service in 2016.

During the first part of the week, staff were involved in shredding, packing, moving, rearranging and setting up new desks, replacing ones from the 1970s that were quickly crumbling.

On behalf of the HR staff we look forward to inviting you, our Tribal Council and community members to the grand re-opening of the new and improved CTWS HR. We will announce the date soon.

With enthusiastic regards,
Elizabeth Sato and HR staff.

Cultural matter

The Native American Cultural Association of Oregon is a newly formed group, helping Native American cultural groups in the state of Oregon.

The organizers launched the group to replace funding that was cut in the Lane Education District, which helped Native American title groups in Lane County.

This affects Springfield, Bethel, Eugene and Siuslaw (Florence) school districts, and puts their Native youth programs at risk.

The Native American Cultural Association of Oregon was originally the vision of Virgil Martin, who ran the Springfield Indian Education Program at the Springfield School District for over a decade.

Virgil was also the one who was able to bring back the powwow at Springfield High School. Virgil started this process before his passing in 2012. Unfortunately, his passing slowed things to a crawl for a few years. With his mother Irene Eskue’s permission, we are carrying on with his legacy.

We have been able to establish the network close to the level that Mr. Martin envisioned before his passing. We now feel confident that we have a great group of people and resources to move forward with his vision.

The Native American Cultural Association of Oregon is currently procuring funds to get registered with the state of Oregon and the federal government. We are trying to raise $3,600, the total cost to complete all filings and pay all fees.

We are focusing on Lane County, but are willing to work together with Native American cultural groups around the state. If we can be of any help, please do not hesitate to contact us. We look forward to hearing from you, and thank you for all you are doing for the Native community.

Sincerely,      Dean Armstrong, Native American Cultural Association of Oregon. 541-653-7983. nacaoregon@gmail.com

Condolences

I would like to reach out to the Tom family and send my condolences for the loss of one of my lifelong friends, Merlin Dean Tom. You will be missed, Bro. I remember when there was a time when you, Victor Smith Sr., and I were inseparable. We used to do a lot of things together, it didn’t matter what it was, from cutting firewood, turning wrenches, hunting or even just running around and being knuckleheads.

We used to be a gang of wrenches, and now you are gone. I’m sorry that I couldn’t be there for the funeral and sing songs for you. You’re my boy Merlin, and

On December 21, 2015 in Vale, Oregon with her husband and youngest daughter by her side Faye Pamperien entered heaven.

She was born on the side of the highway between Harper and the drinking fountain, on January 25, 1939 to Minnie and Curtis Wharton, the youngest daughter of nine.

She formally resided in Bend, Milwaukie and Pine Grove, Oregon.

Faye had a selfless beautiful soul. She loved openly and deeply. She instilled her love, honesty, knowledge, generosity, independence, and sense of humor in all of us. She loved life, and was an amazing mechanic, carpenter and could fix anything. She was tiny but mighty. A firecracker. We called her Fix-It Faye and sought her advice regularly.

She provided an excellent example of how to see good in every person and in every situation.

She is survived by her husband Cliff, sister Bettie Zink, brother Sam Wharton, 5 children, 10 grandchildren, 14 great grandchildren and many nieces and nephews. She is proceeded in death by her parents, four brothers, Carroll, Marvin, John and Tom Wharton; and two sisters, Ruth Howard and Iris Bartle; a grandson, Clifford O. Pamperien; a daughter-in-law, Antoinette Queahpama-Pamperien, and two sons-in-laws, Tom Brown and Kevin Climer.

A Celebration of Life will be held in the spring.

Please send pictures and memories, to be shared at that time, to the family at 970 Airport Road, Vale, Oregon 97918.

The institute’s recent newsletter reviewed some of the projects from 2015, and looks to new accomplishments for 2016.

Coming up in 2016, for instance, is the Northwest Indian Language Institute (NILI) Summer Institute: Speaking Every Day—Everyday Speaking. The 2015 summer program featured Ichishkeen speakers from Warm Springs.

The NILI brochure for the 2016 summer program features a photograph of Arlita Rhoan, speaker with the Confederated Tribes Culture and Heritage Department.

The NILI brochure year in review recalls the International Mother Language Day at the University of Oregon Many Nations Longhouse. The celebration included an English-free language day at the longhouse.

The second Mother Language Day is coming up on February 21. Members are invited to attend.

Cold weather and livestock feed requirements

by Scott Duggan
W.S. OSU Extension

This month has produced a variety of cold weather, including rain, wet snow, dry snow, fog and very cold temperatures. This reminds me of how vulnerable livestock can be in cold, wet weather.

As old folks used to say about cattle and winter, "February will shake 'em and March will take 'em."

Our December weather was at times like March weather. So here is some key information about feeding livestock in the winter.

Livestock in general is very well equipped to handle cold weather. Mother Nature gives these animals a thick hair coat that keeps them well protected down to 18 degrees.

When it dips below this critical temperature, animals will need to burn extra energy to stay warm.

However, if animals get soaked by a wet, heavy snow, and their coat is wet to the skin, then the critical temperature may be reached at 59 degrees.

If the coat stays wet and night time temperatures plummet into the teens, this combination can be deadly.

Ranchers can help their livestock combat these cold temperatures by increasing the amount of forage fed and by increasing the quality of the forage.

Digesting forages takes energy and a by-product of this process is heat. This heat generated from breaking down fibrous feedstuffs can really help animals on cold, winter nights.

Another strategy for dealing with the cold weather is to feed cattle in the late afternoon.

The heat from digestion peaks a few hours after a meal, so offering meals in the evening can help cattle cope with the cold nighttime temperatures.

Using cattle as an example, a general rule to follow is when temperatures drop below the critical temperature for livestock of 18 degrees, cattle owners need to increase the amount of feed provided by about 1 percent for every degree below 18 degrees in dry cold. If there is wind or rain then you need to increase even more.

Also, as many ranchers already know, the thinner the cow gets, the more feed required to keep her warm.

Keeping cows in good body condition not only keeps them warm in the winter, but sets them up to have a healthy calf in the spring.

Ventures, UAV program planning a ground-breaking at Kah-Nee-Ta

Paret of the Confederated Tribes’ unmanned aerial systems program involves Kah-Nee-Ta Resort. The plan is for a part of the resort to be remodeled in order to serve as a training and UAS meeting area.

There is funding available for the Kah-Nee-Ta remodel, and Ventures and its UAS team are planning a ground-breaking at the resort.

This could happen later this winter or in the early spring. Aurolyn Stwyer, Ventures business development and marketing director, is coordinating the effort.

For its UAS program, the tribes are working with SOAR Oregon, an economic development group focusing on the un-manned systems industry in the state.

Recent UAS funding to SOAR is at $3 million.

There are three FAA-designated UAS test areas in the state of Oregon: Warm Springs, Tillamook and Pendleton.

The funding would be shared among the three.

The Kah-Nee-Ta development would be an important part of the tribes’ UAS program.

This would help attract companies to the reservation. This would generate revenue, and create local job opportunities.

Three areas on the reservation are now designated for UAS testing.

The Warm Springs IHS Mobile Medical Unit will be at the Senior Center on Tuesday, January 12.

Local business opportunity serving membership

Dave McMechan/Spilyay

Lynn Davis, tribal administrative director, is hoping a local person will take advantage of a local business opportunity.

Tribal Utilities has caskets available for purchase by tribal members. These are mostly made by carpenters at Omak or Yakama.

Tribal Utilities makes the outer boxes. Utilities will also make caskets, in cases where the Omak caskets from the Yakama builders are not the right size.

Lynn is thinking a local person could take over carpentry work, creating a small business, instead of having the tribes bring in the Omak caskets. The Omak caskets are $1,000; and others from Yakama are available for $550. The outer box costs $260.

George Aguilar Sr. has a casket service that is available to tribal members, by special order.

If you would like more information on the idea of taking over casket carpentry work, contact Lynn at tribal management. For information on the caskets, call Utilities at 541-553-3246; or the Vital Statistics Department at 541-553-3252.

~ Language is Culture ~
And Culture is Prevention

English Translation:
1 Grandfather Coyote and his grandson Rabbit lived along the Columbia River. Grandfather told his grandson, "Don't go too far, don't go near the water. If you don't obey, the water-monster will swallow you."
2 One day, grandson Rabbit went looking for arrowheads. He went too far, he went near the water. The water-monster swallowed him.
3 Grandfather Coyote went looking for grandson Rabbit, he did not know where he went. He did not see him anyplace. Grandfather went to the river and said, "My grandson went too far, near the water. The water-monster must have swallowed him."
4 He took firewood and an arrowhead, then he went to the river. Grandfather called out, "Monster! Monster!"
5 Monster woke up and came out of his cave. The monster looked upriver and he looked downriver. Then he looked across the river and saw Grandfather Coyote at Wacaqws.
6 Grandfather went near the water-monster, he let the monster swallow him.
7 It was very dark in the monster's stomach. In the monster's stomach, Grandfather made a fire. It became bright. He could now see his grandson and the other people.
8 Grandfather told his grandson, "I will cut the monster's heart. The monster will die and breathe his last breath. When he opens his mouth to breathe, you all hurry out. You must run out!"
9 Coyote cut the monster's heart.
10 Taking his last breath, the monster opened his mouth. Coyote, grandson Rabbit, and the other people ran out.
11 Water-monster bit off the tip of grandson Rabbit's tail just as he closed his mouth. That is why rabbits have short tails.

Around Indian Country

Standoff on traditional Burns-Paiute lands

A self-described militia group recently seized control of the Malheur National Wildlife Refuge in Harney County.

This is traditional land of the Burns-Paiute Tribe: Members of the tribe are primarily descendants of the Wadatika band of northern Paiutes, who were hunter-gatherers traditionally living in Central and Southern Oregon.

The Wadatika lived from the Cascade Mountains to Boise, Idaho, and from the Blue Mountains to Steens Mountain.

The tribes' federal trust land shrank from over one and a half million acres to a tiny remnant located in Harney County.

An American Red Cross blood drive is coming up on January 20th between 1-6pm at the United Methodist Church in Madras. To schedule a time to donate, call 1-800-RED-CROSS or online at red cross blood dot org.
